As parents it is vital for us to have good open communication with our children about their internet use, as with all other aspects of their lives. This session for parents looks at talking to our children about the potential dangers that they may come across online as well as the many benefits they will find.

Join us on the 15th of October to:

- Look at ways to help your child be a responsible, effective and safer Internet user.
- Find out about cyber bullying.
- Explore the setting of rules and boundaries around your child's Internet usage as an important aspect of keeping them safe online.

Feedback from parents who have attended the session:

"All aspects of this talk were excellent and so informative."

"Very useful practical tips on how to approach the issue of Internet safety with my child."

"It was surprisingly useful for me, the parenting help was great."

You can register online at www.npc.ie or email your name and contact details to info@npc.ie or phone 01-8874034

All parents of primary school children are welcome
